ABSTRACT

A system and method for presenting data relating to at least one individualized instructional program, comprising: receiving filtering criteria, accessing at least one repository of data relating to the individualized instructional program, and identifying data responsive to the filtering criteria.

5